The Mission's Food Pantry: One Year Later from the Desk of Downeast Director Jenny Jones

Last year on June 12, 2024, the Mission officially opened the doors to our newly built food pantry. The pantry was thoughtfully designed to foster connection among community members and provided a dignified experience when shopping for food. We wanted the new pantry to feel like a small-town general store where everyone feels comfortable and can be themselves. There are a lot of windows to let in natural light, high ceilings, with hanging lights, barn-style doors for additional texture, a café area to grab a cup of coffee, and the most inviting porch to sit and relax. Join the Mission this summer for guided, dockside tours of its 74-foot boat, Sunbeam. Each Friday at 1:00 p.m. from July 11 to September 12, the public is welcome aboard the boat at its home port at the Northeast Harbor marina. Visitors will learn about the organization's history and its programming on unbridged islands and in the Downeast region.

The Sunbeam regularly visits six unbridged islands offering both education, outreach, and medical services. The Mission's island-based programs support residents of all of Maine's 15 unbridged islands with year-round populations. The current Sunbeam, the fifth of its name, has been in service since 1995 and received a total refit in 2020.

During the tour...

When the Mission began in 1905, brothers Angus and Alexander MacDonald set out in the sloop Hope to visit the islands, lighthouses, and remote communities on the coast of Maine. Their goal was to relieve some of the social and economic isolation faced by many residents. Now, 120 years later, the Mission...

The Mission Provides TLC for Island Schools from the desk of Sunbeam Education Coordinator Yvonne Thomas

There was a lot of buzz in the one- and two-room island schools this spring about the future of the Outer Islands Teaching and Learning Collaborative (TLC). The TLC is a long-standing, teacher-created collaboration among seven of Maine's smaller island schools that forms a lifeline of support for teachers, students, and families.

For the past several years, the TLC has been an Island Institute program, and in May, at the TLC's 15-year celebration at Wolfe's Neck Center in Freeport, it was formally announced the TLC would be transitioning from Island Institute to the Mission. The response from the crowd that night was...
